

Students wishing to apply to the PhD in Nursing program must apply to the School of Graduate Studies in the Health Sciences, not to the School of Nursing. Go to umc.edu/son/apply/ to complete an application to the PhD in Nursing, and make sure to select “School of Graduate Studies in the Health Sciences” in the drop down box on the application, then select “PhD in Nursing”.

The screenshot shows a web application interface with a progress bar at the top indicating four steps: 1. Program Data, 2. Personal Data, 3. Educational History, and 4. Address Data. Below the progress bar, there are tabs for each step. The 'Program Data' tab is active. The form contains the following fields:

- Admission Type: "New" (dropdown)
- Registration Type: "Degree Seeking"
- Select area of interest: "School of Graduate Studies in the Health Sciences" (dropdown)
- Program: A dropdown menu is open, showing a list of programs: PhD in Biochemistry, PhD in Biomedical Materials Science, PhD in Clinical Health Science, PhD in Human Pathology, PhD in Microbiology, PhD in Neurosciences, PhD in Nursing (highlighted), PhD in Pharmacology/Toxicology, PhD in Physiology-Biophysics, and PhD in Preventive Medicine.
- Term & Year: (empty dropdown)
- Are you a US citizen? (radio button)
- Next Page button
